Masonic Trivia and Education

Yesterday I had lunch with my most distant subscriber, Ze'ev Petrucci, (pronounced Zev) a FC from Israel. He was in Tucson visiting his mother and other relatives. He is an exported of Israeli Limestone so he is an operative mason as well as a speculative one. His Italian surname actually translates to "Little Stone." He is associated with an English Ritual lodge, Sharon Star of Israel, #7, Ra'anana, Israel. The Grand Lodge of Israel (<http://www.freemasonry.org.il/>) does its ritual in nine languages, depending on the lodge: Hebrew, Romanian, French, Spanish, Turkish, Russian, German, Arabic, as well as English. Ze'ev is the only Yank in his lodge as most of the members are either English or South African.

Thought for the day: Your eyes are the windows of your soul – 8,789 Words of Wisdom by Barbara Ann Kipfer

Quote of the Day: "Never give a man up until he has failed at something he likes." - Lewis E. Lawes

Puzzle: (Yesterday: There are several possible answers depending on the assumptions one made so I am giving credit to all that attempted: Mathew Covel, Wally George, Jerry Estruth, Jim Hewitt, Henry Spomer, Tim Davis, Roy Otterholt, and Bobby Lou Edwards. Only Mathew Covel and Jim Hewitt sent in their assumptions along with their answer making their answers more complete than the others. (a) It would take 8 minutes for 3 monkeys to eat 3 bananas; and (b) it would take 8 monkeys 64 minutes to eat 64 bananas. Food for thought: What assumptions are made in arriving at the solution? Does one assume that 8 monkeys take 1 minute to eat 1 banana and that all bananas are consumed at the same pace? Or does one assume that 1 monkey takes 8 minutes to eat 1 banana and that all monkeys eat at the same pace? Think over it!!! )

Earlier this month, five couples went on a cruise together for their annual vacation. The trip lasted for a week and the couples spent most of their time together. Each morning they would meet for breakfast and decide what to do for the day. On the fourth morning however, the ship stopped at a tropical island resort and the couples discovered that everyone wanted to do something different. At length, they decided to split up for the day and meet back on the ship for supper to share their adventures with each other. Each couple brought back a single souvenir and remarkably, they all brought back something different. Determine the full name of each couple, what they did for the day, and what souvenir each couple brought back.

1. The couple who went scuba diving didn't buy the homemade candies but loved the souvenir that Bob and Judy brought back.
2. Jake, whose last name wasn't Horner, was disappointed by his golfing scores. Peter, who wasn't married to Tracy, wanted to go sight seeing with Bob Gallop but he went surfing with his wife instead.
3. Each couple is represented by the following: Mr. and Mrs. Peel, homemade candies, Cindy, Bob, and golfing.

4. Mike was not Tracy's husband. Jane was not Ed's wife. Ed didn't go hiking.
5. The couple who went sight seeing bought a beautifully carved wood dolphin at one of the local attractions. The dolphin and Sarah's model ship were voted the best of the souvenirs.
6. Ed, who was not married to Cindy, liked the shirts that Jake Bremmer bought. Mike, whose last name was not Elmwood, bought the postcards.
